

Artists work with their production teams in order to create music, or label executives tell artists what to make.